The front cover depicts a stylised version of the Great Zimbabwe bird. At least eight birds carved in local soapstone were originally located at Great Zimbabwe, Masvingo. The finest of these, known as the “Zimbabwe Bird”, is the country’s national emblem, being depicted on both the flag and coat-of-arms, and, since 1985, on all definitive stamps.

PREFACE

This catalogue covers the stamps issued from 1980 by Zimbabwe's postal authority, the Post and Telecommunications Corporation (PTC) and, from 2001, Zimbabwe Post (ZimPost), and stamps are listed and numbered in the order in which they were issued. All stamps listed are illustrated and all a, b, c numbers must be considered to be the same basic design as their main catalogue number. When referring to stamps from this catalogue the prefix ZSC (Zimbabwe Stamp Catalogue) should be used before the number.

The publication was originally produced in two parts. The main text is shown within this document, originally in loose leaf format to allow for amendment and additions. This section can be used as a check list and marked accordingly by collectors in boxes provided on the right side of each page.

It was originally intended that the pricing section would be separately produced, however, The Harare Stamp Company ceased trading in 2009 and so it is no longer available.

The catalogue in its present form would not have been possible without the following people:

Mike Amos: for the technical information based on extensive research until 2002; and

Cecil Russell: for kindly providing the printing details on the Postage Due/To Pay labels

Ken Allanson, one of the editors, was murdered in Harare in 2003, and Mike Amos passed away in 2014.

It has now been over twenty years since this stamp catalogue was first issued. The format has changed from being an A5 loose leaf for easy updating, to this complete catalogue in A4 landscape format electronic version. Thanks also goes to the Rhodesian Study Circle for hosting the catalogue on its website to give it worldwide distribution.

THE PRINTING PROCESS

Apart from the three SAPOA issues, all Zimbabwean stamps have been printed locally by Mardon Printers (Pvt) Ltd, and from 1988 by National Printing and Packaging (Pvt) Ltd (also known as Natprint).

All Zimbabwean stamps have been printed by a planographic printing process known as offset lithography. In the offset method the image of the design is not transferred directly from the printing plate to the paper, but indirectly through an intermediate roller from which it is then offset onto the paper. The stamps are printed in a maximum of four colours and when four colours are used it is usual for the three subtractive primary colours of cyan, yellow and magenta together with black to be used to reproduce by printing the range of colours of the original artwork.

There is evidence however that a fifth printing plate has been used. Where this has been found it has been a second black plate printing the country name and/or the stamp's face value. Where there is a likelihood of an additional plate this has been noted. With the printing of the first non-denominated stamp (ZC 533) two additional plates were used to print the country name and Zimbabwe bird.

Each colour to be printed has two separate plates of images which lie side by side in the press and which are known as plates 1A and 1B. When a sheet of paper passes through the press it receives the impressions of the images on both plates. This means that the uncut printer's sheet of stamps contains two panes of stamps, 1A and 1B. These printers, or press sheets, are then perforated and consecutively numbered, each sheet being numbered twice as the 1A and 1B panes are given the same numbers. These sheets are then cut into individual post office sheets and the 1A sheets packaged separately from the 1B sheets.

In multicoloured offset lithographic printing it is sometimes difficult for the printer to ensure that all stamps printed within each press run are of the same 'colour', as this process is prone to marked differences of shade, even within the same sheet on occasions. A shade is often a matter of opinion only and colours can change when subjected to ultraviolet radiation, e.g. sunlight, moisture or chemicals.

Sheet marginal inscriptions on the post office sheets consist of the name of the printer (Imprint), which plates printed the sheet and the colour registers or "traffic lights" (both incorporated in the Cylinder Block) and the total face value of the sheet and the PTC sheet serial number (both incorporated in the Number Block).

Since June 1981 for definitives and from November 1983 for postage due stamps an identifying prefix has been printed on sheets whenever new or additional printings have been made. This prefix is printed before "PTC" and the sheet serial number, eg. R1 = second printing, R2 = third printing, R3 = fourth printing etc.

In 2001, with the change in administration from PTC to Zimpost, the prefix of PTC was dropped. Thereafter the name "Zimpost" was printed above the printed sheet number. This printing of the name takes place during the printing of the sheet, and not like the prefix PTC during the printing of the sheet number.

In 2002, with the change in administration from PTC to Zimpost, the prefix PTC was dropped from the sheet number. Thereafter the name Zimpost was printed above each sheet number. This printing of the name and any R number is now incorporated on the printing plate, while the No. followed by the sheet number is applied in a separate operation.

Note: Although Zimbabwean stamps are printed from plates the term "cylinder" is used in this catalogue, as being thought a more appropriate description of stamps printed on a rotary-type press (offset litho) as against those printed on a flat-bed type, where "plate" would be the correct term.

COMPLEMENTARY NOTES TO THE MAIN TEXT

MEASUREMENTS

Where stamp sizes or perforation gauges are given the horizontal measurement is quoted first followed by the vertical.

SHEET FORMAT AND STAMP POSITIONS

Where the sheet format (layout) is described the number of horizontal rows is given first followed by the number of vertical columns. The position of a stamp in a sheet is described first by identifying its horizontal row followed by its position within a vertical column. For instance, when the position of a variety is quoted, Row 6/3 means the third stamp from the left in the sixth row down.

QUANTITIES PRINTED

These are given where known. A figure in parenthesis following a known number printed indicates the numbers of separate printings, each of which can be identified by reference to the sheet number blocks. Where quantities printed are not as yet known only the number of separate printings is given. Not all printings were available from the Philatelic Bureau and consequently in some instances printing quantities do not accurately reflect the scarcity of a particular stamp.

PAPERS AND GUMS

The papers used for printing Zimbabwean stamps consist of an unwatermarked base paper which has been converted by being coated on one side and gummed on the other.

The base paper itself may or may not contain optically fluorescent agents. If it does, then the gummed side will always fluoresce under long wave ultraviolet radiation. Regardless of whether or not the base paper contains fluorescent agents, if the paper coating itself contains them then that coating will naturally fluoresce in UV. Fluorescence in this context means that the optical property of the paper changes from 'whitish' to a 'bright-to-brilliant whiteness' - various degrees of bluish-white.

Phosphor-coated paper will likewise fluoresce on the coated side under UV but such fluorescence may not necessarily be 'white'. The phosphor in the coating will exhibit phosphorescence or an afterglow of some duration when viewed in darkness after the UV source has been extinguished.

All papers are deemed to be white in colour and all PVA gum (polyvinyl alcohol) is shiny or somewhat reflective in appearance. The following types of paper have been used:

A: 1980 -1981. The early paper, being stocks remaining from the Rhodesian administration, was officially described as "white coated gummed". Fluorescent front and back. PVA cream gum.

B: 1981 - 1987. The early paper was superseded by "Harrisons HS6 coated blue-gummed postage stamp paper". HS6 is a fluorescent base paper converted by Harrison & Sons Ltd, England with a fluorescent clay coating especially for lithographic printing. Fluorescent front and back. PVA gum often with a bluish/greenish tinge.

C: 1981 - 1985. Some stamp issues were printed on a paper known as "Postmaster", manufactured and converted by Smith & McLaurin Ltd, Scotland. The coating is not as fluorescent as the previous papers and the gum is described as 'particle gummed'. It is a very different adhesive from PVA as it has a matt, non-reflective appearance. It is what is known as 'dry gum'.

D: 1987 -1996. Harrisons HS6 was replaced by their HS8 which is another type of lithographic paper. Fluorescent front and back. PVA cream gum. Also used briefly in 2000.

E: August 1996 - January 1997. An altogether different paper. It is slightly thicker than HS8 and the gummed side is noticeably non-fluorescent and very dark (mud coloured) under UV. Front fluorescent. PVA creamish gum. Was also used briefly in 2000.

F: 1996 - 2000. Although still officially described as HS8, the paper properties changed in 1996. This is fluorescent front but non-fluorescent back and the gum is whitish PVA. The main change is that as the base paper does not contain optical brighteners the gummed side is non-fluorescent, but nowhere near as dark as paper E under UV.

G: July 2000. Phosphor-coated paper. The phosphor is possibly copper-activated zinc sulphide which exhibits a short yellow-green afterglow and a long white afterglow following excitation by UV. The long white afterglow may also be seen when the phosphor has been activated by ordinary incandescent or fluorescent light. The paper coating itself fluoresces yellowish-cream under UV; back non-fluorescent.

H: 2001. The HS8 properties again changed in 2001. The paper is off- white and non-fluorescent front and back. PVA creamish gum. The shade intensity of the gummed side may vary occasionally under UV.

J: 2003. Paper described as "Chancellor Litho PVA". This paper produced by Tullis Russell Coaters of Glenrothes, Fife, Scotland. Under UV there is no fluorescence either front or back, and the stamp appears to be very dark. Further study needs to be undertaken the issues using this paper type. (Zimpost continue to specify this paper, but more research is necessary as this paper is likely to have changed in the years since it was first introduced)

PRINT COLOURS

The colours used in the printing process as shown in the sheet colour registers or "traffic lights" are listed down from top to bottom.

PERFORATIONS

All stamps are comb perforated, unless otherwise stated. During the perforating process variations can occur when, for example, sheets slides too far or not far enough under the comb, which results in the widths or heights of some stamps differing from normal due to wider or closer (double) perforation holes on part of the sheet. These varieties are not common and caution should be exercised when attempting to measure perforation gauges on stamps from such sheets, which can vary slightly.

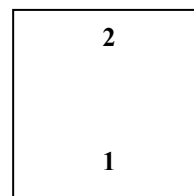

The perforating of the miniature sheets the printer uses the comb perforators of the sheet stamps in a different way by the removal of individual pins. With the first two miniatures sheets (1980 Rotary MS1 and POSB MS2 issues) two of the margins have been perforated through with the pins between sheetlets removed. Miniature sheets printed by NatPrint since 2001 are without perforations though the sheetlets' margins. These miniature sheets have been taken through the perforator in two operations, firstly with the use of the "head" pins of the comb and then subsequently with the "teeth" pins. The pin at the junction of the "head" and "teeth" of the comb is usually kept with the "teeth", resulting in a gap between pin holes in the "head" perforations. As the sheetlet is perforated in two separate operations the registration variations give the appearance of a fault in the perforations. This is normal. To date one miniature sheet shows that one of the junction pins was not removed from the "head", thus giving an appearance of a double perforation hole (2009 Contemporary Paintings MS23).

All SAPOA miniature sheets have used a Harrow perforator set up and designed specifically for the individual issues

Reprints of definitive stamps: The reprints of the 1980 definitive issue to start with could not be distinguished exception by reference to the sheet number. From April 1981, the printings could be distinguished when the reprint number and PTC was added to the numbering machine. Subsequent reprints would therefore read “RX PCT, No XXXX”. The R number relates to the reprint number not the printing number, so R1 would be the first reprint but the second printing.

PTC reprint numbering

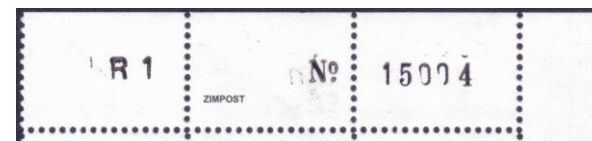

In 2000 with the privatisation of the PTC and formation of Zimpost, the reprint numbering changed with the reprint number and name Zimpost printed in the sheet margins of the number block of 4. The reprint numbers now read “RX ZIMPOST No. XXXX”. This is now referred to as subtype “a” in the number block notations above.

Zimpost reprint subtype a

In the course of the few reprints of the 2005 definitive, with the three reprints of the “AER” values the notation changed. “Zimpost” still appears to be printed in the sheet margins but the “R” number has reverted to the previous PCT method on a block of 6 (2 x 3).

PROOF MATERIAL

Over the past few years, a significant amount of stamp proofs, main imperforate, has come into the market. There are few examples of imperforate stamps released through the post office or Philatelic Bureau, these are listed in this catalogue. It is suggested that any other imperforate stamps of the Zimbabwe era are most likely to be proof material released from the archives of the Philatelic Bureau or the printers. In addition, examples of printer's waste have also appeared on the market.

More details and examples of these proofs and printer's waste can be found in the Encyclopaedia of Rhodesia and Zimbabwe Postage Stamps for each specific issue. The Encyclopaedia can be found on

The missing value found on the 30c, Great Zimbabwe, stamp could indicate that values were printed from a separate plate. No other variation to the stamps have been detected.

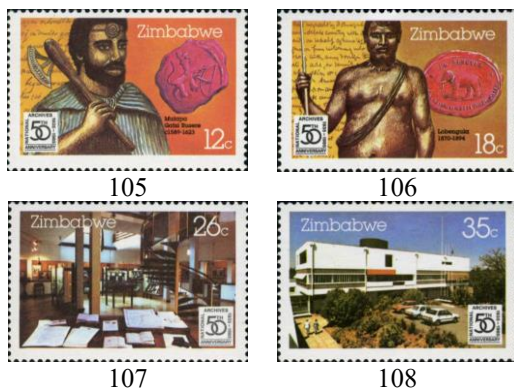

Paper trials were done by Mardon in 1985 on paper supplied by Coated Papers Limited, England. Four different papers were used to print the 11c value which cannot be mistaken for the Harrison type:

- High white litho chromo. Coating dull white fluorescence under UV.

- Intaglio/litho chromo. Coating duller and mottled fluorescence under UV.
- Phosphor coated chromo. Coating bright yellowish-cream under UV. Short yellow-green followed by long white phosphorescence.
- Litho stamp chromo. Coating dark non-fluorescent under UV.

The 11c value printed on any of these papers is rare. One sheet each of Cyls A & B on all four papers is known.

This is the first joint issue of the Southern African Post Offices Association (SAPOA). This issue featured the national birds of the participating nations of Angola, Botswana, Malawi, Namibia, South Africa, Swaziland, Zambia and Zimbabwe. All stamps issued for these countries are the same, save for country's name and value.

These stamps were only sold in miniature sheet format by the Philatelic Bureau, and were was not available from post offices. The first day cover produced for this issue only contained the $2 300 stamp. No sheets of the individual stamps were released, but the use of the single stamp for the first day covers indicates that this stamp could have been produced in sheets and not released. Evidence has now come to light suggesting that sheets of stamps were produced and only used for the first day covers. The first day cover was not released by the Philatelic Bureau, and is similar in design as covers for the other participating nations.

The missing black on 755 indicates that the stamps were printed with a fifth plate (black), as there is no change in the colours of the picture. The missing printing includes the country’s name, value and the year, an example has been seen with the year still in place and that the missing black was in respect of part of the sheet. It is probable that the missing black was due to a cleaning fluid on the fifth plate.

On 26 February 2019, the Zimbabwe government introduced an “alternative” currency known as the RTGS dollar (Real Time Gross Settlement). Initially the US$ was on a parity with the RTGS dollar, this was rapidly changed to US$1 = RTGS$2.50. From 1 April 2019, Zimpost introduced new postal rates in both currencies. On 19 November 2019, the Government reintroduced the Zimbabwe dollar. During this period no new stamp issues were released. Zimpost reverted to the ZAER no value indicator stamps on the release on the next issue.
